Change is in the air at MVCC.

On the heels of the introduction of the college’s new president, it was announced last week that MVCC has signed an articulation agreement with Franklin University’s Community College Alliance in order to offer online bachelor of science degrees.

Franklin University was founded in 1902 and is located on 14 acres in downtown Columbus, Ohio. In 1998, the university established the Community College Alliance (CCA) to provide bachelor degrees through a combination of community college coursework and courses offered online by Franklin University. Currently there are over 1,450 students enrolled from 32 states.

“This is a great option for students,” said Keith F. Lynip, Director of Distance Learning at MVCC. “They can cost effectively complete the programs without leaving their hometown.”

Franklin University and the CCA are accredited by The Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools out of Chicago.

The online bachelor of science degrees offered through Franklin University are Accounting, Applied Management, Business Administration, Business Forensics, Computer Science, Digital Communications, Financial Management, Forensic Accounting, Healthcare Management, Human Resources Management, Information Technology, Management, Management Information Sciences, Marketing, and Public Safety Management. Franklin’s CCA also offers an MBA.

MVCC promotes reading with ‘Readaloud’ program

MVCC celebrated the “gift of reading” with its annual Utica Library Readaloud Program on Tuesday, April 17, in the lobby of Payne Hall. This event was part of National Library Week on the Utica Campus.

“We really enjoy providing faculty, staff, and students the opportunity to publicly read from something they select,” said Steve Frisbee, Director of College Libraries.

There was a diverse selection of readings – humorous, poetic, scientific, children’s, and inspirational.

According to Mr. Frisbee, during the mid-1950s research showed Americans were spending less on books and more on radios, televisions and musical instruments. Concerned about Americans reading less, the American Library Association and the American Book Publishers formed a non-profit organization called the National Book Committee in 1954. The committee’s goals ranged from “encouraging people to read in their increasing leisure time” to “improving incomes and health” and “developing strong and happy family life.”

In 1957, the committee developed a plan for National Library Week based on the idea that once people were motivated to read, they would support and use of libraries.

Taking part in this year’s event reading children’s selections were Carolyn D’Argenio, Corey O’Neil, Erin O’Brien, Jim Maio and Mr. Frisbee. Others reading aloud were Alexandra Haire, John Bolton, Anthony Santalucia, Jim Gifford, Curtis Arena, Dan Larson, Morris Pearson, Sandra Engel, Tara David, Crystal Evans, Kristen Medici, Marie Czarnecki, Larry Cohen, Michele Uryniak, Ashia Robinson, Patrick Getz, Alicia Irwin, Jessica Hanmer and Barbara Granato.

There were also three presentations in foreign languages. Nadia Martinyuk read in Russian, Camila Ramos read in Spanish and Zainab Ali read in Arabic.

Franklin University specializes in serving adult students, most of whom work full time. The average age of undergraduate students is 32.

"Not only our older students, whom are place bound, will find this appealing. Some of our alumni who are still in the community and would now like to get their bachelor degree will find this beneficial," said Mr. Lynip.

This distance learning program is arranged that students must first complete their associate degree in an accredited community college setting. Students then submit transcripts to Franklin’s CCA for evaluation at no charge.

The equivalent of the student’s third year will be completed at MVCC, paying the college’s tuition which is much lower than a four-year institution. MVCC students can take courses concurrently with Franklin University’s courses. Franklin’s CCA courses cost $255 per credit hour, except for the computer related courses. These cost $318 per credit hour to cover the cost of the provided software.

“The bridge courses can be taken here on this campus so that we are getting students for a third year taking our courses and the FTE are our students and the tuition is ours,” said Mr. Lynip. “Another benefit to MVCC faculty is that Franklin University offers the instructional strategy course free as a form of professional development.”

All lab work is done on MVCC’s campus by college personnel.

There is a financial aid agreement through the department of education that allows students to take courses through MVCC and Franklin concurrently without losing full-time student status when it comes to federal aid.
